SHORT LOCALS.

Brief Items of Interest Throughout the Town and County.

The friends of B. W. Miley, Esq., are glad to see him out again after an illness of two weeks.

Probate Judge G. P. Harmon has been confined to his home for several days on account of illness.

Mrs. W. E. Jeffcoat, of North, who has relatives in Bamberg and visits here frequently, has moved to War Eagle, West Virginia.

Get in all your votes in the Book Store doll-train contest. The votes will be counted for publication in The Herald next week.

Material is being placed on the ground for the erection of a modern brick residence by Mr. LaVerne Thomas on Elm street.

Mrs. William DesPortes, of Ridgeway, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Havelock Eaves, on Orange street.—Orangeburg Times and Democrat.

The commissioners of State and county and federal elections are expected to meet this week and provide for the holding of the general election in November.

Miss Mary Livingston entertained at her home at a rook party in honor of the teachers in the graded school Tuesday evening. Ice cream and cake was served.

The Missionary society of the Methodist church will meet in the parlors of the church next Tuesday afternoon. All officers and members are urged to be present.

Cotton sold in Bamberg yesterday for seventeen cents. This is the record price, with the exception of a brief period some fifteen years ago, when the fleecy staple sold as high as seventeen cents.

Mr. A. L. Kirkland, of Olar, was in the city Monday. Mr. Kirkland was nominated clerk of court in the recent primary. He stated that he would move to the city before the first of January, if he can succeed in securing a residence by that time.

The Wilson Campaign Fund.

The Herald is now receiving contributions to the Wilson and Marshall campaign fund. Below are the names of contributions received this week. Bamberg county is not showing up well in the campaign fund lists, and we think the people of the city and county should make liberal contributions. The time is now short, and funds are sorely needed. Don't wait until someone calls on you for a contribution, send it to The Herald today. We will acknowledge all contributions through The Herald, and forward the money to the proper authorities.

Bamberg city has to its credit, we believe, four or five dollars. The town ought to give at least $100.00 to this fund. Denmark has forwarded a pretty good sized check. Shall Bamberg remain behind? Other than the town of Denmark, practically nothing has been contributed so far. We would like to acknowledge at least $50.00 next week. Send on your dollar or more if you can. The following have contributed the amount named:

A. M. Brabham$1.00
C. R. Brabham, Jr. 1.00
W. A. Dickinson50
G. A. Jennings 1.00
Dr. E. O. Watson 1.00

Bailey Beats Carlisle.

Greenwood, Oct. 6.—Bailey opened its football season here today by defeating Carlisle school, 20 to 0. Carlisle proved stronger than expected and put up a hard fight, but was unable to cope with the power and skill of the soldiers. Hough, Lenoir, Luther and Moore played sensational ball for Carlisle. The entire Bailey team played a good, consistent game, but spectacular runs were made by Capt. Stone. The playing of Jones, Creech, Edwards, Bunch and Wright deserves special mention. The feature of the game was a fifty-yard gain for a touchdown by Stone on a beautiful forward pass from Creech. Carlisle (0). Position. Bailey (20). BryantC..... Bunch LutherR.G..... Negroes Buy Automobiles.

This is distinctly a year of prosperity for the small farmer. Especially are the colored people prosperous. The one and two-horse colored farmers all have pretty stiff bank accounts now. One result that has come from the negro's prosperity is the buying of automobiles. Never before in the history of man has so many automobiles been sold to negroes. It has been said that a negro will not keep money, and it certainly seems that this is true of a large number of them. Having several bales of cotton left after paying their fall obligations, any number of them have poured a large part of their profits into gas buggies. Never before has there been such a demand for second hand cars. What has heretofore been the deadstock of the automobile dealers have had to contend with was the old cars they had to take in exchange for new ones. No longer is this true. The colored man with the bank account is waiting for every car the dealers can lay their hands on.

And the colored people are not all contenting themselves with old cars. Many of them have bought new automobiles, and doubtless many more will be sold, as more seventeen cents cotton is put on the market.

A Word With a Personal Touch.

A good many Bamberg people are possessed with the idea of sending away to other places for their printed matter; they say they get it a little cheaper. Perhaps they do; perhaps The Herald force could get their clothing, shoes, etc., a little cheaper by sending to Sears & Roebuck or some other mail order house for them, but we don't do it, because we are trying to make our living in Bamberg.

There is at least one organization in Bamberg that has sent "away" to get a little book printed, because our quotation was a little higher. In a year's time, if that organization paid space rates for everything published by it and about it, The Herald would be richer by many good dollars. But—that is a cat of another color.

There is one merchant here who expects the people in town to trade with him, yet he sends away to get his printing, because The Herald wants an honest profit on its investment and labor. This merchant does not attempt to sell as cheap as the Baltimore Bargain House, but The Herald is expected to be cheaper than anybody else.

Bamberg Boys Enlist.

S. C. McArthur, chief boatswain's mate, stationed in Columbia on recruiting duty, visited Bamberg Saturday, and secured four recruits for the United States navy. Mr. McArthur examined the applicants, and three of the four left Saturday night for Atlanta, where they will be given the medical examination. The four enlisting Saturday were: James Calhoun Hughes, and Milo Ervin Hughes, sons of Mr. R. M. Hughes; George Steedly, son of the late Mr. Charlie Steedly, and Eddie Walker. Mr. Walker will not leave until about two weeks.

After spending a few days in Atlanta, the recruits will be sent to the training station at Norfolk, Va., where they will enter training work for three or four months, after which they will be given assignments on some naval vessel.

While here Mr. McArthur had headquarters at the postoffice, where he examined all applicants. Any others who may desire to enlist in the naval branch of Uncle Sam's service may do so by handing in their names to the postmaster or to Mr. R. M. Hughes. Mr. Hughes says he will be glad to procure proper blanks, etc., for any one who wishes to join the navy.

RALLY DAY AT TRINITY.

Wesley Class and Sunday-School Reorganize for Fall Campaign.

The Rally Day exercises of Trinity Sunday-school brought a full attendance at the Sunday-school hour last Sunday, and the exercises were not only interesting and impressive but showed rare equipment for the great work of training young people in the knowledge of the Bible and the service of Christ.

The efficient, wide-awake superintendent, Mr. A. B. Utsey, and his able assistants have been steadily striving to make the school not merely large as to enrollment, but really efficient as a church school. Mr. Utsey has now gathered about him a consecrated band of efficient, trained helpers as officers and teachers that must approach very nearly the ideal of Sunday-school efficiency. We doubt if such an organization can be found in many other schools of the State, and we do not believe a superior organization can be found anywhere.

The school, under the general superintendency of Mr. Utsey, is now divided into departments, each under an efficient superintendent. Prof. E. P. Allen is educational superintendent, and with his trained skill will steadily strive to perfect the grading and apply the most effective plans for effective teaching. Mrs. E. O. Kirsch is superintendent of the junior and intermediate departments, and with her experience, ability, and enthusiasm will aid in making these departments most efficient. Miss Alma Black, who is most liberally endowed by nature and training with the graces, accomplishments, and enthusiasm required in that most vital department, will have the superintendency of the beginners and primary department. Mrs. D. J. Delk, with consecrated enthusiasm, will push the work of the home department, striving to enlist all who cannot attend Sunday-school in the study of the lessons and tie them to the school. Mrs. W. D. Rhoad will continue her splendid work with the cradle roll department, which has already proven so efficient an agency of the Sunday-school under her management. Special temperance and missionary teaching will be under the direction of committees headed by Prof. R. T. Fairrey, and Miss Bessie Lee Black. Messrs. Glenn W. Cope and E. L. Price, Jr., will serve as secretaries, Mr. W. D. Rhoad as treasurer, Mr. M. P. Watson as marshal, and Messrs. Clarence Armstrong and Marion Rhoad as librarians, and Prof. S. A. Merchant will assist Mr. Utsey in the work of general superintendency. In each of these departments there is a corps of trained teachers, each practically a specialist, realizing very nearly the ideal that prevails in the common schools of only trained men and women for the work of teaching.

These officers and teachers were formally installed with appropriate and impressive ceremony Sunday-afternoon, after which the promotion of pupils was announced and each class, practically full, was organized for the year's work. The list of officers and teachers installed follows: A. B. Utsey, superintendent; E. P. Allen, educational superintendent; S. A. Merchant, assistant superintendent; Mrs. E. O. Kirsch, superintendent advanced department; Miss Alma Black, superintendent beginners and primary department; Mrs. D. J. Delk, superintendent home department; Mrs. W. D. Rhoad, superintendent cradle roll; Glenn W. Cope, secretary; E. L. Price, Jr., attendance secretary; W. D. Rhoad, treasurer; M. P. Watson, marshal; Clarence Armstrong and Marion Rhoad, librarians; Miss Bessie Lee Black, chairman missionary committee; R. T. Fairrey, chairman temperance committee. Teachers—Beginners and primary department: Miss Alma Black, superintendent, Miss Mary Livingston, Mrs. R. B. Still, Mrs. J. J. Jones, Mrs. Glenn W. Cope, Miss Ruth Anderson, Miss Martha Ray; advanced department: Mrs. E. O. Kirsch, superintendent, W. W. Daniel, Jr., Miss Beulah Hiers, Mrs. M. T. Johnson, Miss Violet Anderson, Miss Mildred Beatty, Paul Whittaker, Miss Bessie Lee Black, Miss Faith Schuette, W. C. Duncan, J. C. Guilds, S. A. Merchant.

Business Men's Bible Class Rally. The Business Men's Bible class of Trinity Methodist church gathered in their class room last Sunday morning and after their rally attended the morning church service in a body. It was an impressive sight to see this body of earnest men filling a large part of the centre of the church. The sermon by the pastor was, by request, on "The Holy Grail of the Bible Class," and especially directed to the class.

Dr. Watson told of the meaning of the word "grail"—cup, the symbolism attaching to the cup in all ages, and the legends that had formed about the "cup, or grail" in pre-Christian times. He then explained how these pre-Christian legends took form in the middle ages about the cup used at the last supper by Christ and his disciples, which cup, according to legend, was a cup of emerald originally presented to King Solomon by the queen of Sheba, and handed down from generation to generation until it came into the possession of Joseph of Arimathea, in whose home it was used at the "Last Supper." In this cup Joseph was supposed to have caught drops of the Saviour's blood as he hung upon the cross. Then the cup, according to the legend, miraculously nourished and delivered Joseph of Arimathea when he was cast into prison and walled up to die without air or food. The cup was brought to Britain by Joseph, and wrought wonderful blessing to the land, finally given into the keeping of knights of a castle thereafter known as the Castle of the Grail. The keepers were always to be pure and stainless, giving their lives in service. In course of time a keeper of the grail departed from this way of purity and service, and the grail disappeared. Thereafter it was the greatest proof of consecrated goodness and knightly chivalry to seek to find and bring back this cup. The desire to seek it was interpreted to mean a desire for communion with God and the knowledge of truth, to dream of seeing it, even veiled, was regeneration, to even glimpse it in fact was salvation, and the belief was that at last some one of absolute purity should find it and bring it with all its power to bless black to the land. Such a knight, by name Galahad, came at last to Arthur's table round, and thence going forth on the quest after varied experiences saw it, and following it, rode throughout the land shattering every evil custom with the power of ten because his heart was pure, and at last was himself crowned in the far off city, since when none has even dared say he saw the grail.

These legends were shown through all their wild vagaries to express the deep longing of the human soul for communion with God, for personal holiness and service to mankind. Their influence was traced as the star dust of literary material in art, music, and literature, and finally applied to the work, aims and ideals of the Wesley Bible class movement; the red and white of the class badge signifying "no purity without sacrifice," "no remission of sin without the shedding of blood,"—and the motto of the class "My Brother and I," symbolizing the service that men banded as knights of the cross in the New Testament covenant of the blood of Jesus might render mankind.

This Bible class movement, as organized under the different denominations and under an international association, is among the greatest of modern Christianity, and the Business Men's Bible class of Bamberg has done, and is doing, much toward the realization of the ideals of noble Christian service. The class, in addition to the study carried on, has done much in the way of helpful

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Waldo Lever, Richland county; vice president, Curtis Smith, Greenwood county; secretary, Miss Eunice Muckenfuss, Colleton county; treasurer, Miss Lula Belle Slater, Calhoun county; pianist, Miss Grace Fox, Colleton county.

The three literary societies have begun work in earnest. Each has attained a good membership.

charity, much in bringing helpful influences to bear upon young men, and much in inspiration to other communities in arousing them to like activity.

During this fall the class will continue special studies in the life of Paul, and will have a programme of active work reaching a climax in the second anniversary celebration and banquet next February.

Mr. C. R. Brabham, Jr., is president of the class; Mr. F. C. Ayer, secretary; Mr. R. S. Simmons, treasurer, and Prof. J. C. Guilds, teacher.

Waterworks Contract Let.

The commissioners of public works has awarded the contract for installing the pipe lines for the waterworks system to Blankenship & McLellan, of Charlotte, N. C., and it is expected that the contractors will arrive in the city within the next few days to begin work.

All of the preliminary survey work has been completed, and a map of the pipe lines has been on exhibition at Mack's Drug Store for several days.

Wells are now being sunk at the waterworks plant to supply the water for the new system. It is expected that all of the work will be completed and that the town will be supplied with plenty of water within the next four months or so.

Jail is Empty.

For the first time in many months, the Bamberg county jail has no occupants, other than the jailer and his family. There were only a few prisoners in the jail since the last term of court was adjourned, and on Tuesday the last of these was released on bail.

Mr. C. E. Kinsey, of Ehrhardt, who was committed to jail a few days ago, on a charge of assault and battery, was released this week on bail, and Mr. L. L. Ballentine, who was charged with bigamy, was released as the charges against him had been dropped.
